Share your story of recovery to help others

Background: Santa Clara County’s Suicide Prevention Program is developing a suicide prevention mass media campaign to combat stigma and encourage older adults to use mental health services. The county is seeking male volunteers 65 and up who are willing to share their story of recovery from suicide. The campaign will include online ads, printed brochures, a short video and possible bus ads. You will be compensated for your time.

Criteria:
- 65+ years old
- Male
- English-speaking
- Lived experience/ recovery from suicide or suicidal thinking
- Willing to be recorded and photographed
- Comfortable with having their image and story shared with the public

Commitment:
- Screening interview
- A few hours being interviewed about your experience on camera
- No need to memorize a script
- Photo shoots
- Possible media interviews
